HOW MISSIONARIES MAKE LOTS OF MONEY.

A gentleman, says the Chattanooga Times, who spent a number of years in China, connected with a railroad enterprise, and who returned to Chattanooga several months ago, furnished a Times reporter with the following interview on the Chinese situation:

"Nearly all of the missionaries whom I met," he said, "were attired in native costume. Both sexes were so dressed, and in reply to my inquiry as to why they did this I was told that they considered it safer to go about dressed as natives, and that it suited their purpose in many other ways.

"This started a new train of thought in my mind and one day I asked one of our consuls what, in view of the fact that both missionaries and pupils wore he native dress, became of the clothing and other good things sent over to our missionaries by various churches the heathens.

"He explained that all goods sent to a box to Rev. Fiddle, D. D., Pei Ho, China, it is shipped in care of some large mercantile house in San Francisco, which firm, in a spirit of benevo lence and do-goodism, agree to attend o the shipping of the e boxes without compensation.

"This, of course, looks very well on the face of the retuns, but the facts are that Rev. Fiddle and others of this kind ict as agents for these benevolent Sar racias agents for these benevolent San Francisco concerns, who ship back their own goods in boxes marked and labled so that you cannot tell it from one containing seal skin Bibles and Arctic overshoes from the W. C. T. U., Wayback, N. J. Thus the missionary receives, for every box of gifts from his church in America, from ten to a dozen others containing goods from San Francisco, al of which is entered as 'stuff for the poor heathen' free of duty, at the treaty port of entry. Some of the missionaries buy direct, but have an understanding with the American house that the goods he orders are to be so marked that they can be easily smuggled in as missionary stuff for the heathen. "But this is not all," the consul went on to relate, "and subsequently I had the matter verified before my senses or twenty or more occasions, that the mis-sionaries not only sold the goods which they ordered from the American merchants, but also disposed of the box of clothing for the heathen to Americans and Europeans. I subsequently learned this to my profit, and found that when, in out-of-the-way parts of Chins, I needed any underwear, shoes, a hat, coat, pants, etc., I would always buy Southing Syrup and take no other kind, same from the missionary at a very low

"By reason of the amuggling of wares. missionaries were and are able to sell goods very much cheaper than the regular merchant, who pays import duty, I know of a number of poor missionaries who went to China several years ago with nothing but a little black valise, a consumptive's couch and his monthly pittance, who, when he returns home, will be worth from $50,000

"This of course, will be earned preaching the gospel to the heathen and incidentally carrying on the smug-gling business. There are many honest missionaries in China, but they are not in a very conspicuous majority.
"The consul also told me, and I had dready learned the same thing, that a vast number of Chinese merchants are n the business of importing goods of the same character, as those smuggled in by missionaries. The competition between the two classes was causing trouble while I was there, and the consul predicted just what has come to The Chinese are not fools, and when they see a man preaching the doctrine of humility and abnegation, on one occasion, and selling ginseng and cotton goods on another they begin to think that Melican man talkee muchee goodee and actee belly blad." PUMMELED HER RIVAL.

On the most public street corner in Harrisburg, Pa., on Thursday occurred a scrap which for a one-round affair created more excitement than the Corbett-McCoy bout in New York Wednesday night. Mrs. R. J. Oyler and Miss Carrie Leevy engaged in a fistic encounter and hair pulling match that was fierce and short. Miss Leevy is a music teacher, and buys her music at the store where Mr. Oyler is a clerk. Mrs. Oyler thought her husband was paying too much attention to Miss Leevy and when the latter went to the store and asked for "I'd Leave My Happy Home for You" and You'se Man Honey Baby" she was entirely too personal. Thursday they met at the store door just as Miss Leevy had purchased from Mr. Oyler the song entitled "By Your Side." Miss Leevy went up Market street, followed by Mrs. Oyler. At Third and Market Mrs. Oyler caught A NOTHER INVOICE OF CHOICE CAL INFORMIA LEMON CLING SLICED FEACHES, in cans, received and for sale by J. C. MILBURN.

to ruin my home," and Miss Leevy reached forth her hand to rush her away. Her hand struck Mrs. Ogler in

Then the trouble began. Mrs. Oyler side-stepped and swung her umbrella with all her might against Miss Leevy's new bonnet confection. Miss Leevy countered with her reticule and soaked Mrs. Oyler in the solar plexus. Mrs. Oyler landed her pocketbook on Miss Leevy's chin and Miss Leevy swung with her music roll. A clinch followed, during which back hair was torn out in huge bunches and there was a prospect of both going down to avoid pun-ishment when a fat policeman hove in view and took them to the Mayor's hearing on a charge of street affray. DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP? A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more se-

A Word to Mothers.

Mothers of children affected with croup or a severe cold need not hesitate administer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It contains no opiate nor narcotic in any form and may be given to our missionaries by various churches as confidently to the babe as to an and charities for distribution among the heathens.

The great success that has attended its use in the treatment of colds and croup has won for it the approval
